Presentation Summary:

Do you create and deliver presentations as part of your role? Do you coach others on how to design slides, dashboards, or visuals? Are you interested in tips and tricks to communicate a message effectively?

Join us for an interactive session on how to improve business presentations to make them memorable, visually impactful, and polished – including real-life examples, best practices drawn from literature, and recommended resources to grow your skills.

About the Speaker:

Jennifer Dolphin is a fourteen-year supply chain veteran with experience developing and delivering presentations to executive audiences. She is passionate about improving the quality of communication on supply chain topics, has run internal company seminars on improving presentations, and frequently acts as a “presentation whisperer” by providing feedback for individuals with high-stakes meetings. Jennifer is presently the Team Lead, Capacity Planning at Canadian Tire Corporation, accountable for providing capacity recommendations for one of the largest retail Distribution and Transportation networks in Canada.
